OUTLINES.

Hampton Roads yesterday gave up four more bodies of the victims of the Battleship Minnesota's launch disaster; this makes eight bodies recovered and three are still missing, including Midshipman Henry Clay Murfin, of Wisconsin, and two seamen; the search continues night and day and it is believed that the remaining bodies will be secured——In the trial of former Associate Statistician Edwin H. Holmes in Washington yesterday for giving out advance information about cotton crop statistics, L. C. Van Riper, a New York broker, said Holmes changed the whole cotton crop estimate to suit a New York cotton speculator; the witness was in the deal with Holmes and acknowledged that he finally lost money by dipping into the rascality, laying the blame on Haas who roped him into the deal——At Boise, Idaho, yesterday the prosecution in the Steunenberg murder trial offered strong evidence against W. D. Haywood, showing by tell-tale letters that Haywood kept in touch with Orchard when he was engaged in his various crimes and helped Orchard to conceal his whereabouts from Mrs. Orchard——The directors of the Jamestown Exposition Company have made James M. Barr, former president of the Seaboard Air Line, director general of the exposition, and endorsed a second bond issue of $700,000 to complete the exposition in three weeks——In New York yesterday during a trial involving kidnapping and "Black Hand" methods, an Italian was terribly alarmed and refused to testify when another gave him the "Black Hand" sign of death, indicating what would become of him if he turned State's evidence——President Roosevelt yesterday appointed Richmond Pearson, of North Carolina, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Greece and Monte Vegro——At Columbus, O., yesterday a passenger train was wrecked and many people seriously injured——New York markets: Money on call steady 2 1-2 to 2 3-4 per cent., ruling rate 2 3-4, closing bid 2, offered at 2 1-2; spot cotton 5 points higher, closing steady at 12.95; flour steady with a light trade; wheat firm, No. 2 red 97 elevator; corn firm, No. 2, 61 3-4 elevator; oats firm, mixed 50; turpentine steady 60 to 60 1-2; rosin steady.

Col. E. H. Says the Lumberton Robesonian, of June 17: "To give some idea of what is being done in this community in some lines, Lumberton received during the month of May 28 solid cars of corn, oats, hay and flour. Of course, this does not include the many shipments of less than carloads." All of it, with probably the one exception of the flour, could have been produced in Robeson county with a saving to the farmers. Then, again, the money would have been kept at home. The Danbury Reporter states that "a nice vein of coal has just been discovered at Pine Hall and that it is being investigated with a view to working it." Raleigh, N. C., June 18.—In the case of Dr. David S. Rowland and wife, held in jail without bail to answer the charge of poisoning Engineer C. R. Strange in accordance with the commitment of Coroner Separks issued last evening on the strength of the verdict of his jury that Strange came to his death from unnatural causes and recommending that Dr. and Mrs. Rowland be held for the grand jury of the July term of Wake Superior Court, it seems that no steps will be taken at least for the present to procure bail for either of them. In fact, there seems to be some disagreement among counsel for the prisoners as to whether there should be application for a writ of habeas corpus at all. The more conservative members of counsel do not favor effort for bail lest failure to secure it should further prejudice the case for the Rowlands when the trial is finally had.

Mrs. Rowland seems to be taking her imprisonment with more fortitude than she did last night. She wept bitterly when she went into her cell declaring that she could not endure even a night in the jail.

INJURED NEGRO DIED

George Washington Jones Died at Hospital Yesterday Morning.

George Washington Jones, the young negro who was run over and had both legs cut off by a suburban car at the end of the Wrightsville Sound switch Monday midnight, an account of which was given in the Star yesterday morning, died in the hospital about 10 A. M. yesterday. No hope was entertained for him from the start. He was much under the influence of liquor when he was picked up by the track and the presumption is that he probably lay down on the track and where the two tracks come together it was impossible for the motorman of the car to have seen him. He said that he was struck by the Wilmington bound car, which had just passed in charge of Motorman Rhodes and Conductor Parham. Motorman Tedrick and Conductor Moore were in charge of the other car and they made the find. The remains were turned over to Alex. Davis, the colored undertaker.

Charges Not Sustained.

Mr. Franklin P. White, assistant postmaster at Shallotte, N. C., was in the city yesterday. While here he forwarded to the Postoffice Department at Washington an answer and sworn affidavits to charges of inebriety that seem to have been filled against him by some of his enemies in the Shallotte section. Mr. White visits Wilmington frequently and as is well known he has been a sober man for four years or more. He and his friends are at a loss to know the basis of the charges in this particular now.

Dogs in the Pound.

The dog cart of the city is now on its rounds and owners who are delinquent in the way of buying tags may expect to find their pets in the pound at foot of Chesnut street if the tax is not paid. There are now ten incarcerated there and if the owners do not call for them, they will be killed. Among the number now held are two fine setters, one with collar, black head and ears, the other white body, black ears and head. There is also a black and white pointer there with several black and tans and a number of mixed breeds.

HORSEWHIPPED TWO MEN

Charge Brought Against Well Known Contractor By L. M. Bryant, White, and His Son—Hearing Before Justice Bornemann.

A general hurrying and scurrying among officers and loungers on magistrates' row yesterday morning preceded the announcement of a sensational affair that had just taken place on the Federal Point road, about three and a half miles in the country. In a few minutes Deputy Sheriff A. T. Piver darted out of Justice Bornemann's office with four warrants for Mr. James H. Burriss, the well known Wilmington contractor. All the while L. M. Bryant, also well known in the city as the "slop cart man" being the contractor for doing this work for the city, talked excitedly in the justice's office, exhibiting whelps upon himself and also on his son, alleged to have been applied by Mr. Burriss whom they charged with horsewhipping them. Mr. Burriss soon appeared in court and gave bond for his appearance today at noon when he will be given preliminary trial.

The horsehiding is the sequel to a long drawn out trial before Justice Furlong last week in which Mr. Burriss charged Bryant with larceny in dipping and removing turpentine from lands in controversy between them in Federal Point township. Justice Furlong held that there was probable cause and Bryant was bound over to court. Yesterday morning Bryant and his son went down in Federal Point to work the turpentine on lands that were still in controversy between them. Mr. Burriss had preceded them with hands of his own which were engaged in dipping the turpentine on his lands. He saw Bryant and his son on lands that he held to be his own and it is stated that he plied the whip strenuously while it lasted. Bryant said that Burriss also cowhided his son, but Mr. Burriss denies this admitting that he confined his attention to the old man. Bryant had an axe on his shoulder and Burriss claims that he drew this on him after which he pulled his pistol to defend himself. The four charges are each for an assault with a buggy whip and drawing a concealed weapon on the father and son. Mr. Burriss has employed Walter P. Gafford, Esq., to defend him, while Bryant has engaged Herbert McClammy and Marsden Bellamy, Esqs., to prosecute the case.

DRAMATIC RECITAL.

Pupils of Mrs. Curtis Arnall-North Gave Delightful Affair.

The pupils of Mrs. Curtis Arnall-North gave a delightful dramatic recital last evening in the parlors of Grace Church. In spite of the threatening weather at the hour appointed for the recital there was a good attendance and those present were charmed with the affair, the students giving marked evidence of splendid training and natural talent well developed. It was quite a success also as a social affair, the reception committee having been composed of Misses Lucile Page, Lydie Penton, Josie Lathrop, Knoxie Crump, Mary Claire Peterson, Eliza Collins, Clara Chadwick and Emma McEachern. The programme was as follows:

WOMAN PLUGGED HIM

John Wesley, Colored, Shot Last Night In Terry's Alley.

John Wesley, a young negro 22 or 23 years of age, was shot and painfully but not seriously wounded last night about 12 o'clock in Terry's alley, near Fourth and Brunswick streets, by Cornelia Smith, a negress who flew into a rage of jealousy and fired upon him when he refused to go home with her when she requested him to do so. The ball struck Wesley just above the right eye at the edge of the hair and glanced off his skull else the wound might have been fatal. The police station was notified and Hall Officer W. C. Moore carried the wounded man to the hospital in the patrol wagon. Although he is not seriously wounded, it was thought best to keep him there pending developments.

Capt Geo. Smith went over to the scene of the shooting immediately a telephone message reached the Hall, and those in the vicinity of the house where the trouble occurred told so many conflicting stories that all were arrested and locked up at the police station for developments. Early this morning it was stated that the negro's skull was possible fractured and Capt. Smith thought it best to take the precaution of arresting the outfit.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

Board of Audit and Finance in Its Regular Session Last Night.

MARKET AND ENGINE HOUSE

New Structure at Fourth and Campbell Streets—Brief Discussion of Several Matters—Garbage Contract Concurred In.

The meeting of the Board of Audit and Finance was not especially interesting last night. Members of the Street Commission were not present for a conference as was expected and street affairs were not discussed at any great length, this matter having been further postponed. Chairman McQueen and all members of the Board of Audit and Finance were present. Alderman French, chairman of the Fire Committee, was present to urge some changes in the scale of wages for firemen, making a plea that the graduation be from $45 to $55 per month for firemen according to length of service and that the foremen be paid $65 instead of $57.50. The graduation of firemen as previously agreed to was from $50 to $57.50 per month but Mr. French said there was only one four-year man at the latter figure and he favored a reduction in the general grade and the granting of an increase to the foremen. The Board after hearing Mr. French decided to take no action and the scale remains as it was originally adopted.

Mr. James H. Chadbourn, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee which has the matter of the 30-foot propaganda for the Cape Fear river in hand, addressed the Board briefly, urging concurrence in the appropriation of $1,000 made by the Aldermen in furthering the movement. The appropriation was concurred in as a public benefit.

The proposition of Chairman McQueen, as commissioner of the sinking fund, to place the street commission in funds for carrying on the street work until the first series of the bond issue is available, was concurred in, and the Mayor was authorized to execute the required notes.

The renting of the mules in the Sanitary Department to Messrs. Woolard & Furlong, the garbage contractors, was referred back to the Board of Aldermen with the information that the bid of the contractors was to purchase the teams at a price to be mutually agreed upon and the Board does not concur in the proposition to lease them. Captain Meares, the clerk, said he understood that the Sanitary Committee had agreed to let the contractors have the stock for cost of maintenance for 30 days until the Street Commission decides what it will do in the matter of retaining the stock.

Appropriation by the Aldermen to repair Sixth Street bridge was referred to the Street Commission.

In response to inquiry from the Mayor, the Board ruled that continuous service, without discharge or suspension, would apply to the rate of wages of policemen under the "civil service" rule adopted. The ruling was also made that the service is to be counted from time men are elected regularly to the force and not time they have made as substitutes.

The park proposition was left open as the Greenfield tender involved the building of streets which is in the hands of the Street Commission.

The most important action of the meeting was concurrence in the pending appropriation of $8,000 for the building of a combination market house and engine station at Fourth street bridge, plans and specifications to be called for and submitted with bids to the Audit and Finance Board.

The contract with Messrs. Woolard & Furlong was read and approved as was also their bond of $2,000 with Messrs. James F. Woolvin, John Barry and W. B. Cooper as sureties. The contract is for two years, payment for the service to be made monthly.

The following bonds were approved: N. J. Williams, chief of police, in the sum of $2,000 with the American Bonding Company, of Baltimore. Springer Coal Company, for furnishing supplies of fuel, in the sum of $200 with F. W. Dick and J. V. Grainger as sureties. J. B. Casteen, oil lighting, in the sum of $200 with J. O. Brown as surety.

Bills for current expenses were read and approved and at the last of the meeting members were called into brief consultation on the question of streets, the chairman stating that inasmuch as the Commission was undecided as to what it would do about repair work, it would be impossible to fix salaries for the present. Mr. Meares stated that he thought it was not the general question of repairs that the Commission was bothered about doing by contract, but it was the matter of emergency repairs. This was discussed at some length and the Board adjourned without taking any action.

Daughters of Confederacy.

The regular monthly meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will be held this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the Wilmington Light Infantry. A large attendance is expected as business of importance is to be transacted.

THE RHOE CONTROVERSY

Pastorate Expired Yesterday and Compromise Was Suggested By Which Still Another Election Is to Be Held.

The following correspondence is self-explanatory. It indicates that the "Rhoe church trouble" is at last to be settled "in strict accordance with the laws and government of the Baptist Church." According to the unanimous vote of the church in adopting the report of the recent Mutual Council, Rev. Rhoe's time as pastor was out last night, June 18th. A few weeks ago, however, the Rhoe faction in the church elected him again to serve indefinitely. This was not agreed to by the opposing faction, and arrangements were made to bring an injunction today, restraining him from serving as pastor, under that call.

Yesterday the attorneys, Herbert McClammy for Rhoe, and John D. Bellamy, for the dissatisfied members, agreed that the best thing to be done was to give the church, after due notification, an opportunity to hold a fair, square election, and both sides agree to abide by the result. Mr. McClammy called Rhoe to his office for consultation, and the following correspondence between Rev. Rhoe and Dr. Hale was the result:

Wilmington, N. C., June 18, 1907.

Rev. Fred D. Hale, City.

Dear Bro. Hale: I consulted my attorney regarding the condition that exists in my church, and after mature consideration, I have decided to do this, provided that the friction ceases upon the adoption of the following proposition: I will announce tomorrow night that on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, June 26, A. D. 1907, that in order to give every member of my congregation an opportunity to vote for a pastor of the First Baptist Church, colored, of Wilmington, N. C., that there will be an election held in said church for the purpose of electing a pastor on that date, and if the majority of the members present elect me to serve I shall do so to the best of my ability. If the majority of the members decide that they do not wish me to serve in the capacity of their pastor, I will bow with humble submission to their wishes, and my resignation will go into effect at once. I do this in the interest of the furtherance and promotion of the Christian religion in my church. If my people wish me to serve them I will. If my people do not wish me to serve them I will seek, then, other fields of usefulness. I do this with the express understanding that if I am elected, this friction must stop.

Faithfully yours,
J. H. RHOE.

P. S.—I send you copy of the resolutions that will be introduced tomorrow night.

As indicated above, the following resolutions will be presented, in a special called conference meeting tonight, at the time of the regular prayer-meeting, and both Rev. Rhoe and Dr. Hale desire every member of the church to be present and vote on the question of their adoption.

"Whereas, There has been some dissatisfaction in the First Baptist Church, colored, of Wilmington, N. C., and some of its members are feeling that the election for pastor, that has heretofore taken place, has not been in strict accordance with the laws and government of the Baptist Church;

"And, whereas, in order that the members of this congregation may have an opportunity of casting their vote for their choice for a pastor to serve them;

"And, whereas, it is understood and agreed by all the members present that an election shall be held, for the purpose of giving every member an opportunity to vote, and in doing this that the friction now existing in said church will be forever buried, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the members of the First Baptist Church, colored, of Wilmington, N. C., will meet in said church on June 26th, A. D., 1907 at 3 o'clock P. M., and go into an election for a pastor, said election to be final."

Dr. Hale's reply to Rev. Rhoe's letter is as follows:

Wilmington, N. C., June 18, 1907.

Dear Bro. Rhoe: Yours of this date to hand. As the dissatisfied members have put the matter of settling the church trouble into my hands, I reply at once, after consulting with one of the members of the committee. The plan, suggested by your attorney, and accepted by you, is eminently satisfactory, and, in my opinion, is the right way to settle the trouble as to who shall be pastor of the church. An election "in strict accordance with the laws and government of the Baptist Church" is all that is desired. I will notify the disaffected part of the membership of the meeting Wednesday night, so that they may have an opportunity to be present, and vote with your people on the resolutions. And I feel sure that one week later, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, they will join you in a fair and square election for pastor.

Fraternally,
FRED D HALE.

SESSIONS CONTINUE

Carolina International Training School at The Seashore Hotel Wrightsville Beach.

INTERESTING DISCUSSIONS

Dr. Hamill Continues His Lectures on Mosaic Law—Miss Hungerford's Drawing Instruction Exciting Favorable Attention.

The Sunday School training institute at Wrightsville Beach continues with interest and there is now an enrollment of more than two hundred. The last full day's session will be today as tomorrow at 1 o'clock there will be an adjournment.

Dr. Hamill yesterday morning continued his studies of the Mosaic law and made present-day applications of the great truths brought out. Mrs. Hamill continued her study of the Child Lesson and was heard with interest by those in attendance. Mrs. Lamoreaux spoke more particularly along the line of memory and imagination in continuing her addresses on child study. She was listened to with increasing interest and no doubt impressed her hearers with the necessities of systematic work in developing the child along the lines of its fullest intellectual attainment.

The Afternoon Sessions.

Every phase of life, excepting one, from infancy to ripe old age having been discussed at previous sessions of the school, Dr. Hamill took up the missing one—that of "The Big Boy." The address, at once humorous, instructive and pathetic, was one of the best among the many very excellent discourses that have been delivered.

Genealogically, he declared the big boy a lineal son of Ishmael. Following him from the parlor to the kitchen he graphically depicted his entrance, greeting and exit. He said he had heard the cook once tell a big boy "he could eat de Jordan off de cross." In appearance the big boy has a beauty not to be desired; his voice is cracked, his appetite persistent, clothes loose and hereditary, complexion all freckles and pimples, hands and feet large and restless. The occupations of this member of society are laughing and guying; his companions, other Ishmaelites and "moreover" the dogs; his heroes are Fitzsimmons and Dewey; his favorite amusement is yelling, and his favorite literature paper backed volumes. Through the Baraca and other classes for young men he is becoming tamed and even now will feed out of your hand. Assume that this uncouth creature is a gentleman and he will fulfill your expectations; assume that he is an Ishmaelite and you will have your hands full. To do the best work with him, one must have faith in him and see his possibilities—get on his level—assume no airs for he detects them at a glance—and use him for all he is worth.

The crude picture on the board was at this point further embellished by a stroke with red crayon at the necktie point and coat lapel. This was denominated the "Rainbow of hope" out of which will come either the dude or the man.

As the needs of the child have been discussed from day to day, so now this big boy's needs were taken up. First and imperative among these is the necessity for something to eat, almost anything will do but he likes a little ice cream with it. Two general rules summarize the care to be given him, viz: Feed him, and don't expect too much of him.

Mr. W. M. Cumming, of our city conducted a brief Sunday School Conference, dealing with the duties of the Sunday School officers.

There are only two days more of the term, the School closing Thursday at 11 o'clock. To the Wednesday programme has been added a mass meeting for Sunday School workers, to be held in the auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Two hundred and forty-two persons have been enrolled.

TO BUILD ON PRINCESS STREET

Mr. James F. Woolvin to Erect Handsome Building—Three Stories.

Mr. James F. Woolvin yesterday let the contract to Messrs. Porter & Matthews for a handsome three-story stone front store building which he will have erected just west of his present new building and next west of the old Court House property all of which he owns on Princess street. Work will begin at once and the building will be completed and ready for occupancy by the Fall. The building will be of stone and solid plate glass in front and will present a most attractive appearance. The width will be 17 feet, running back into the block 66 feet. The upper floors will be connected with the lower by an up-to-date freight elevator and all modern conveniences will be put in. Mr. Woolvin ultimately will build new structures on all the old Court House site and the first of the tier of buildings will be a handsome one.

SHORT COTTON CROP.

The Journal of Finance is published every Saturday in the great city of Chicago, and, of course is devoted to the matters of finance and business, as its name indicates. It is an excellent publication, and Chicago-like it is enterprising, gathering its news by wire from all parts of the country, covering everything from the New York Stock Exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade, the cotton fields of the South, the grain fields of the West and from the foreign markets, and the most remote mining camps in Alaska and Mexico. In a recent issue, we get this under the head of "Bad Crop Prospects in the United States":

"The serious shortage in the cotton crop which is now threatened would mean an enormous financial loss to the United States except for the fortunate fact that the Southern States enjoy a practical monopoly in cotton raising. There are very few sections of the world outside of our Southern States which produce enough cotton to cut any figure at all in the world's available supplies. The consumption of cotton throughout the world has a tendency to increase and is only limited by the actual amount that can be raised in our Southern States. The cotton planter in this respect is in a much more commanding position than is the wheat raiser who has to compete with farmers in Russia, India and the Argentine, which ordinarily grow enormous crops of wheat and are handled by such cheaper labor than can be obtained in the United States.

"It is to be reasonably expected that the price of cotton will show advances which will perhaps more than compensate the planters for the big shortage. At present the world's total visible supply of cotton amounts to about 4,500,000 bales, as compared with 3,971,000 bales a year ago this time. It may, therefore, be some months before the price can show sufficient advance to properly reflect the big probable shortage in this year's crop. It will probably pay spinners to lay in large stocks of cotton, while it can be bought at reasonably cheap prices. Later on, when the world's visible supply is found to be very insufficiently replenished by the new crop, consumers may be required to pay prices which may seem extraordinarily high in comparison with previous years. The Southern planter, on the other hand, no doubt will show wisdom in holding his present stocks of cotton. The South at present is in an extremely prosperous condition owing to fairly good crops and reasonably high prices for years back, so that even if net financial returns from this year's crop prove unsatisfactory yet the South ought to be able to stand such loss without any serious impairment of its prosperity."

Everybody who knows anything about the cotton situation must recognize that the Journal of Finance takes a logical and philosophical view of it. The view is based on the condition as The Chronicle gets it from the cotton fields and its judgment in the matter is based upon the solid facts which it spent money to get. The cotton speculators on the bear side in New York, use every day of sunshine to depress the price of cotton, but when it is realized how poor the 1907 cotton crop is going to turn out, the advice of The Chronicle will be regarded as the better part of wisdom and worthy to be heeded.

PORT FOR NORTH CAROLINA.

Good opinions continue to be expressed concerning Wilmington's movement for deep water to meet the imperitive need of the present business of the port and provide for the commerce that is waiting for greater facilities for ocean traffic. Many of the Star's exchanges have heartily endorsed the proposition to make a first-class port of Wilmington. We may not have seen all that has been said, but this we get from the Elm City Mirror, and it will meet with appreciation here:

"We are glad, indeed, to see from our contemporaries on the Cape Fear that efforts are being made to make Wilmington a port of entry and to the consummation of this end are appealing to our delegation in Congress to aid Representative Godwin in securing the opening a thirty-foot channel from that city to the sea. We hope that every one of the delegation, prompted by love and pride of State, will give to the movement such loyal aid, support and endorsement as will make Wilmington what it ought to be, one of the chief, one of the finest, one of the most important sea-port cities on the coast between Savannah and Baltimore. It will put Wilmington on a par with Norfolk and will be to North Carolina what Norfolk is now to Virginia and Carolina. Wilmington then would logically be the place for a coaling station, and would give more prominence and more importance, from many business viewpoints, to our City by the Sea. The opening of this waterway will bring about a greatly desired competition, and, in fact, we know of nothing that would be more conducive to the upbuilding of eastern industries and the business interests of all our people, especially in Eastern North Carolina, than the consummation of the ends for which our Wilmington friends are striving, and we hope that in this undertaking they will have the hearty support and the active co-operation of the business men of the State."

If we begin to appreciate the large and growing manufacturing interests of North Carolina and her large agricultural resources yet to be developed on the scale that they warrant, it must be seen that North Carolina must have a port. We think it is being pretty well understood that deep water for Wilmington means a distinct advantage to every quarter of the State. The 30-foot channel, in the words of President J. Allen Taylor, of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, is a State project.

NEIGH, PAULINE.

If there is no danger that The Star will be placed in the prevaricator class, we will report that at a convention of animals the question of nature fakirs came up. Brer Fox, chairman of the Committee on Hunting for Holes to Hide In, reported that a Man With a Big Stick and a Thing Like a Gun had called one Dr. Long a Nature Fakir. Brer Fox concluded with a few remarks and recommended that, as the charge appeared on the surface to be in the interest of The Animals, the Man With the Big Stick and a Thing Like a Gun be invited to come before the convention and state the case specifically against Dr. Long. To cut the matter short, he requested that all in favor of the proposition should hold up their tails, but not a single tail was erected, whereupon Brer Bear and Mr. Bob Cat, having no tails and therefore By Nature being always counted in the negative in a tail primary, went around shaking the paws of the animals and congratulated them upon having the intellect, sagacity and prudence of the Horse, who is always in favor of the Neigh side of a proposition. Brer Possum was almost dying with the Dry Grins, but he announced that this fable teaches that the convention considered that as a Nature Fakir Dr. Long was harmless and consequently just as much entitled to go into the immunity class as E. H. Harriman.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—Charleston's efforts to unbottle her port and realize its undoubtedly great possibilities are primarily a campaign against railroad discrimination. In this fight North Carolina, a bottled State, knows only too well where sympathy is due.—Charlotte Observer.

—The subsidy bill which failed at the late session of congress had, according to the president, "nothing whatever in common with certain previous measures of the same name." Nothing, that is, except the fact that it would have applied public money to the support of a private business.—New York Evening Post.

—The Norfolk and Southern Railway carried seventy-five car-loads of truck through Newbern Saturday over its new line to Northern points by way of Norfolk. The giving of quicker transportation facilities to Eastern North Carolina rich lands is going to make that whole section a vast truck garden. It only needs drainage and transportation facilities. — Raleigh News and Observer.

—President C. C. Moore, of the Southern Cotton Association, figures that "the old system of marketing cotton has cost our State from two to twenty million dollars annually," and he adds "if there had been some system by which our 1906 crop of about 625,000 bales could have been held from market, until this time, the value of the crop to the State would be near $8,000,000 more than we did receive for it." That is a strong way of putting the argument for holding cotton. The farmers sold most of the crop in the fall. If all the crop could have been sold at present prices, we would be twice as prosperous in the cotton section, or if we could have held one-tenth of the crop until today, that would have made a big difference. The present prosperity of the South is chiefly due to the prosperity of cotton farmers. While our industries are varied, cotton is the true barometer of the South's financial status.—Raleigh News and Observer.

TWINKLINGS.

—"Well, have you made enough money to retire on?" "Better yet—I've made enough to stay up all night on."—Cleveland Leader.

—"You needn't sit up for me tonight, Maria." "I won't, dear, I'll be standing just inside the door for you."—Chicago Tribune.

—"The wall paper hangers charged so much that Knockley put the paper on himself." "Dear me, how odd he must have looked."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

—Barber—Thank you, sir, I don't often get my tip before I begin. I'm sure I appreciate— Customer (who likes his hair cut in silence)—I don't want you to consider that a tip. It's "hush" money.—Punch.

—"This straw," said the hatter, "is really better than a Panama, and it's particularly suited to a short man." "What's the price of it?" asked Sawdoff. "Twelve dollars." "Not much! That hat won't do my friend, for a man as short as I am."—Philadelphia Press.

—Gracie—Is your affair with Mr. Bijones progressing, Jane? Jane—Yes; there has been one proposal already and I think there will be a couple more. Gracie—Mercy, Jane; didn't didn't you accept? Jane—Oh, I merely proposed to mamma that she should propose to Mr. Bijones that he should propose to me.—Brooklyn Life.

—Comforting Reflection.—Old Mother Hubbard had gone to the cupboard, and of course had found it quite bare. "I suppose, then," said the Poor Dog, "that I don't get anything." "Oh, yes," said the Old Lady, "you have the advantage of knowing that you are living in a time of unexampled prosperity."—Puck.

A HELPING HAND.

Is Gladly Extended by a Wilmington Citizen.

There are many enthusiastic citizens in Wilmington prepared to tell their experience for the public good. Testimony from such a source is the best of evidence, and will prove a "helping hand" to scores of readers. Read the following statement:

C. H. Horton, printer on The Morning Star, formerly residing at 109 1-2 Dock street, Wilmington, N. C., says: "I had a rash on my body which had been bothering me for some time, and often almost set me wild. I used lots of medicine and remedies, but without relief until I procured Doan's Ointment from Bellamy's drug store, I found it to be almost excellent. I do not believe it was ten minutes after I applied it before I had relief. I am glad to let tohers know of an effective preparation like Doan's Ointment proved to be in my case."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

RALEIGH CENTRE OF POSTOFFICES

Office at North Carolina Capital Handles Millions of Dollars—Distributes Salaries of Carriers and Fourth-Class Postmasters.

(Raleigh News & Observer, July 19.)

A million and more dollars a year is a large sum of money to pay out from one place, yet this is the sum that each year is distributed from the Raleigh postoffice to the rural free delivery carriers of the State, the men who in storm and sunshine, in weather fair or foul, carry the news to the people throughout the country and who are part of a great educational force.

This is not all the money handled through this postoffice by a long sight, for all the remittances of the fourth class postoffices of North Carolina go through the Raleigh office, and this amounts to about $160,000 a year. Add this to the money which is handled in the postoffice in its direct business here, and the amount will go beyond two millions of dollars yearly, which is enough to make folks sit up and take notice.

There are in North Carolina now 1,177 rural free delivery routes and beginning with the first of July the carriers on these routes get an increase of 25 per cent. in their pay, which carries the amount paid in North Carolina from $820,000 to $1,025,000, the increase being $205,000 in this State. The rural carriers are to be paid salaries according to the new classification, based upon the number of miles on their routes. As the classification now stands carriers getting $720 a year are increased to $900 a year; those getting $702 or $684 to $864; those who get $612 to $720; those who get $576 to $630.

An Anecdote of Shelley.

The poet Shelley tells an amusing story of the influence that language "hard to be understood" exercises on the vulgar mind. Walking near Covent Garden, London, he accidentally jostled against an Irish navvy, who, being in a quarrelsome mood, seemed inclined to attack the poet. A crowd of ragged sympathizers began to gather, when Shelley, calmly facing them, deliberately pronounced:

"I have put my hand into the hamper. I have looked on the sacred barley. I have eaten out of the drum. I have drunk and am well pleased. I have said 'Knox Ompax,' and it is finished."

The effect was magical. The astonished Irishman fell back. His friends began to question him. "What barley?" "Where's the hamper?" "What have you been drinking?" and Shelley walked away unmolested.

The Regular Charge.

"I've come to pay my bill," said the patient; "$120, I believe?"

"Yes," replied Dr. Soakem, "making a total of $122."

AN AFTERNOON WEDDING.

Miss Susan LeRoy Parsley Bride of Mr. James O. Carr.

A marriage of much interest to a large number of friends in Wilmington and elsewhere was that of Miss Susan Leroy Parsley and Mr. James O. Carr, which was solemnized at half after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Kate Parsley, No. 314 South Second street, this city. Conforming to the wishes of both bride and groom, it was a very quiet wedding, but charming for its simple elegance and the beauty of its environment. The parlors and halls of the home had been attractively decorated with banks of palms and ferns, while here and there were roses, peonies and other flowers that with the assemblage of wedding guests made a scene beautiful to behold. The color scheme was white and green and this was carried out perfectly.

The ceremony took place at an improvised altar at an advantageous position in the room, a soft glow from numerous candelabra having been shed over all. The couple stood under the large Parsley wedding bell, used by all the descendants of the late Col. and Mrs. O. G. Parsley, the bride being a grand-daughter of that family. She wore a beautiful gown of white liberty satin with lace veil of Mrs. J. Francis King, her maternal grand parent. The ceremony was by the Rev. J. M. Wells, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and it was quite impressive and pleasing. The bride entered upon the arm of her brother, Mr. Geo. D. Parsley, by whom she was given away at the altar.

The bride was attended only by her sister, Miss Blanche Parsley, as maid of honor, while the groom was attended as best man by his friend, Mr. H. M. Chase. There were no bridesmaids or groomsmen, but the following friends stood with the party Miss Lina Wiggins, Miss Frances Chadbourn, Miss Mary Dudley Davis, Mrs. Frank H. Stedman, of Fayetteville; Miss Julia Parsley, Miss Margaret Peirce, of Warsaw; Messrs. Graham Kenan, Alfred A. Moffitt, Louis E. Hall, J. Sprunt Newton, and Frank H. Stedman, of Fayetteville. Only the immediate families and a few very intimate friends other than those mentioned witnessed the ceremony.

The maid of honor was very prettily attired in a becoming gown of white. The bride's going away gown was black Panama with hat to match.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Carr received the best wishes of their friends assembled and later repaired to the Front street station of the Atlantic Coast Line, whence they took their departure for a bridal tour North. They will return in about three weeks and will be at home in this city, where they have a host of friends. The bride is a daughter of the late George D. Parsley, of Wilmington, and belongs to one of the oldest and most distinguished Cape Fear families. She is much loved and admired in a wide circle of friends. The groom is one of Wilmington's leading young attorneys and is the junior member of the firm of Rountree & Carr, coming originally from Kenansville. He represented the county of Duplin for one or more terms in the General Assembly before locating in Wilmington for the practice of his profession, and has since coming here had several honors of a public nature conferred upon him. He enjoys the confidence, respect and esteem of everyone, and there are many who will congratulate him upon his good fortune in the wedding ceremony of yesterday.

GOUDEAU'S SHEEP.

It Matched His Dog and Satisfied the Tax Collector.

Emile Goudeau, a celebrated character of Paris, was one of the most confirmed bohemians that ever lived.

There is a story of him and a certain black spaniel which followed him with the faithfulness with which the historic little lamb attached itself to the historic little Mary. Goudeau and the dog, in fact, were never separated.

It dawned upon the tax gatherer of the neighborhood that Goudeau had not paid his dues for the "inferior brother."

He approached him, therefore, in as friendly a spirit as possible, being, indeed, an old acquaintance, and said, "M. Goudeau, I must ask you to pay your tax for the spaniel."

The bohemian was immensely surprised, or affected to be. "But don't you know, my dear sir," he said in a tone of remonstrance, "this is a sheep dog, useful to me in my work and consequently exempt from the tax?"

"But you are no shepherd," returned the tax gatherer; "you are a poet."

"No shepherd!" replied Goudeau. "Every poet is a shepherd. Have you not heard of Virgil and Theocritus"—

The poet would have recited twenty other names if the tax gatherer, alarmed at such a display of learning, had not stopped him. "But at least you have no sheep," he said.

"No; I admit that," said Goudeau. "It is because I am too poor. But I will rectify that."

And he did. Next day he was observed promenading the streets of Montmartre with the same old black spaniel, but with a newcomer in the shape of a real, live, woolly sheep.—London Sketch.

The Word "Cutler."

"Cutler," according to its present use, should mean a man who makes things that cut, but really it has no more to do with "cut" than "cutlass" and "cutlet" have, which is just nothing at all. "Cut" has some Teutonic origin, but "cutler" comes through French from the late Latin "cultellarius," which meant either a soldier armed with a knife or a knifemaker, and "cultellus," a little knife, was the diminutive of "culter," which, among other things, meant a plowshare or "coulter." "Cutlass" comes from the same source, and "cutlet" is "cotelette," a little rib.

Curious Inside Information That Was Gleaned by an Inquisitive Visitor at a Little Shop In an English Country Village.

Sober, he is one of the most interesting men I know. Unfortunately he is sober only three days a week. When I ask him the reason he merely says he doesn't know. Yesterday when I walked into the laboratory at the back of his little village shop he was a Band of Hope epitomized.

"There's something you'll like," he said, indicating a small bureau, old Spanish mahogany within, new satinwood veneer—so far unpolished—without. The veneer was inlaid with ebony lines and kingwood bands. The accuracy of the jointing was wonderful, the finish perfect.

"You must come in again when I've stained and polished it," he went on, "and then you'll think it one of the best Queen Anne pieces extant."

"Don't your customers ever find you out?" I asked.

"Lord, no, sir! When you've pulled seventeenth century furniture to pieces all your life and learned the things the tenons and mortises and the finish tell you, it's easy enough to get the right effect. The public hasn't any judgment, and, for that matter, many of the London dealers aren't much better."

"But this veneer—so very new," I hazarded.

"Ah, wait until you see it toned down and the drawers fitted with a set of old Boule handles and scutcheons I've got by me and a few little dents hammered here and there, especially about the feet, where they get kicked. You'll not know it then. See that little black knot I've left on the face of the third drawer? That knot would take in all Wardour street."

He is always frank with me about his fakes. He seems to take a pride in being able to deceive a trained eye and a satisfaction in explaining his dexterity.

I left the bureau and began examining a hoary looking oak settle gray with age.

"Looks ancient, doesn't it?" he observed.

"Looks!" I wondered. "Surely it's genuine?"

He shook his head with a wise old smile. "It's as genuine as dilute nitric acid can make it. Oh, you needn't go by the panels. They're purposely warped with hot ammonia. The sun and rain do the rest—bleach it, you know."

"But the carving?" I argued. "It's almost effaced in places."

"It would be after half an hour with a sand blast, a little thing of my own contrivance. The worm holes I make with a very fine punch. Beginners use shot, but that's a clumsy way. Of course the timbers it's made of are old. They are bits of a Charles I. table mostly. The hinges are ordinary trade copies that have lain in the wet all summer and got nicely rusted, and if you were to draw the screws that hold them you'd find they were rusty, too, and had no points. Those I filed off and then hammered the heads a bit."

"I didn't know you—treated metal as well as timber," I admitted.

"Sometimes. See that fireback?"

I went to the corner indicated and scrutinized the fireback. As far as I could tell, it was a beautiful specimen of hammer work bitten and worn by over two centuries of use, as its date, 1687, seemed to show.

"I bought a dozen of those of different dates from a man who makes them. They're only cast, but after they've had a bonfire over them in my yard for a week or two they get soft and look right enough, don't they?"

I admitted that they did, flinching a bit, though, at the adjective he used.

"There's a regular trade between the manufacturers of faked antiques and the country dealers—more than with the London ones. Why? Well, the manufacturers have discovered that people go into the country districts now hunting for antiques. They think the things they pick up there must be genuine. The simple countryman inspires confidence. There's nothing hardly that can't be imitated," he went on. "It's merely a question of time—and skill, of course—and it's only by accident, or talking as I'm doing, that the fact's discovered. But when a man knows he can take in an expert it's difficult for him to keep it to himself—that is, if he's got a sense of humo Do you think that Syrian gold work they had at the Louvre would have been known as a forgery if somebody hadn't talked? No, indeed! There's china, now. People always think it's above suspicion, but you just look at those two china cows on the shelf there. One's genuine old Stafford. The other isn't. Can you tell the difference?"

I used a pocket magnifying glass this time, but at the end of several minutes I came to the conclusion that they were identical and said so.

"I gave one and nine for the imitation one, but I can't tell which now," he admitted.

"And the selling price?" I inquired.

"Six guineas each. One of them's worth that. After all, it doesn't really matter, for there's no difference between them intrinsically."—London Mail.

EIGHT OF ELEVEN BODIES FOUND

Four More Victims of Minnesoata's Launch Disaster Were Recovered Yesterday.

THREE MORE ARE MISSING

Believed That All Bodies Will Be Recovered As Close Search Is Being Kept Up—Inquiry Into Catastrophe.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Newport News, Va., June 18.—Today the waters of Hampton Roads gave up the bodies of four more victims of the Minnesota's launch disaster, two dead midshipmen and two blue packets having been picked up about a mile off Fort Wool (Rip Raps) within half a mile of where the launch was sunk. The corpses were those of Midshipmen Walter Carl Ulrich and Herbert Leander Holden; Ordinary Seaman H. L. Vandorn and Coal Passer Jesse Conn.

Rear Admiral Emory, commanding the American fleet now in Hampton Roads, left for Washington tonight. It is understood that he goes to the capital to make a complete report upon the tragedy and confer with the Navy Department in regard to the investigation which is to be begun. Before boarding the steamer Washington, the admiral said to the representative of the Associated Press that the bodies of eight of the eleven who were on board the launch had been recovered and three more were missing. Those receovered were the remains of Midshipmn Philip H. Field, of Virginia, who graduated last year and was attached to the battleship Minnesota; Midshipman William Hellister Stevenson, of North Carolina, who graduated last year and was attached to the Minnesota; Midshipman F. P. Holcomb, of Delaware, who graduated in February of this year and belonged to the Connecticut; Midshipman Carl Walter Ulrich, of Wisconsin, who graduated in February and was attached to the Minnesota; Herbert Leander Holden, of Portage, Wis., who graduated last February and was assigned to the Minnesota; Coxswain R. H. Dodson, attached to the Minnesota; Ordinary Seaman H. L. Vandorn; First Class Fireman George W. Westphal, and Coal Passer Jesse Conn, all of the Minnesota's crew.

Still missing are the bodies of Midshipman Henry Clay Murfin, of Wisconsin, who graduated in February and was assigned to the Minnesota; and Ordinary Seaman F. R. Plumber, of Mabtor, Washington, both of whom were attached to the Minnesota.

Since three dead midshipmen were found yesterday, launches and tugs have been searching all over lower Chesapeake Bay and Hampton Roads This morning about 10 o'clock the excursion steamer Mable Golden sighted and picked up the body of a blue jacket which was afterwards identified as that of Ordinary Seaman H. L. Vandorn. The body was towed to the government pier at Old Point and Later taken to the Minnesota. Later near the same place, the tug Mohawk found the body of Midshipman Holden; the tug Potomac that of Midshipman Ulrich and the launch of the battleship Maine that of Coal Passer Conn.

All of the corpses were taken aboard the Minnesota and there identified and examined by a board of surgeons, before being placed aboard the Potomac and carried to the Marine Hospital at Portsmouth. At the hospital the caskets are being held for instructions from the relatives of the dead men.

Tonight the search is still going forward. A stiff breeze is blowing and a misty rain coming down but all the searchlights in the fleet are playing on the tugs and lauches and they pass to and fro hauling grapnels. The three bodies will be found within the next twenty-four hours.

The tenth body identified was that of Coxswain R. H. Dodson, of New York. His body was picked up off Old Point Comfort several days ago, but it was not until this afternoon that the identity was established. Rear Admiral Emory confirming the report that the body was Dodson's.

Another Body Recovered.

Newport News, Va., June 18.—Late this afternoon the launch of the battleship Iowa picked up the body of F. R. Plumbee, ordinary seaman, near where the other four were found earlier in the day. The body of Midshipman Henry Clay Murfin is now the only one missing.

The Investigation.

Norfolk, Va., June 18.—The investigation by local steamboat inspectors Tapley and Bray today of the sinking of the battleship Minnesota's launch was barren of result save that the witnesses, of all of whom were members of the crews of the tug Crisfield and car float No. 10, of the New York Philadelphia and Norfolk Railway, testified to their lack of knowledge of any collision between their vessels and another through which the loss of the launch might have resulted. No light whatever was thrown upon the tragedy.

The Jamestown Exposition directors at a meeting on the grounds last night accepted the resignation of Governor W. E. Cottrell, director general of the show, elected J. M. Barr, formerly of the Seaboard to succeed him and authorized a second bond issue of $700,000. Mr. Barr will accept and bend every energy to complete the Exposition in three weeks. The bonds are to cover existing liabilities of the company and run for twenty years, secured by a second mortgage upon the property of the exposition.

NINE KILLED IN MINE.

Terrific Explosion on Account of Carelessness of Door Tender.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Scranton, Pa., June 18.—Seven men were killed outright and two others seriously injured in two explosions of mine gas in the Johnson No. 1 mine, at Priceburg, late today. The first explosion was caused by the carelessness of a door tender, whob y leaving a door open allowed gas to accumulate in the workings. One man was injured as a result of this explosion. The second explosion, which resulted in the death of seven men, and the injury of another, resulted from the ignition of the deadly fire damp, which accumulated after the first explosion. Of the eight men who were working in the main gangway at the time of the second explosion, seven were killed instantly.

One man was so badly mangled it is impossible to identify the body. All the victims were frightfully burned, the clothing being burned off most of them.

News of the explosion spread rapidly through the village of Priceburg, a mining hamlet just north of Scranton, and hundreds of wives, children and other relatives of those who are employed in the mine hurried to the breaker. So badly disfigured were the remains of those who were killed that identification at the time was impossible and the wildest excitement prevailed. Harsh measures had to be pursued by the mine officials to keep the crowds back and hundreds followed the ambulances to undertaking establishments.

About 1,500 men work in the mine, but as no account was kept of those who had come out before the explosion occurred, it is impossible to determine until the rescuing party returns if the death list is complete.

LONG HAIRED MEN.

The Way Massachusetts Protested Against Them in 1649.

The following protest signed by Jo. Endicott, governor; Thos. Dudley, deputy governor; Richard Bellingham, Richard Saltonstall, Increase Nowell, William Hibbins, Thos. Flint, Rob. Bridges and Simon Bradstreet was published in Massachusetts in 1649:

"Protest, against wearing long hair, of the governor, etc., of Massachusetts:

"Forasmuch as the wearing of long hair, after the manner of Russians and barbarous Indians, has begun to invade New England, contrary to the rule of God's word, which says it is a shame for man to wear long hair, as also the commendable custom generally of all the godly of all our nation, until within these few years:

"We, the magistrates, who have signed this paper, for the shewing of our own innocency in this behalf, do declare and manifest our dislike and detestation against the wearing of such long hair, as against a thing uncivil and unmanly, whereby men doe deforme themselves and offend sober and modest men and doe corrupt good manners. We doe therefore earnestly intreat all the elders of this jurisdiction, as often as they shall see cause, to manifest their zeal against it in their public administrations, and to take care that the members of their respective churches be not defiled therewith; that so, such as prove obstinate, and will not reforme themselves, may have God and man to witness against them. The third month 10th day, 1649."

ADAM'S FIRST WIFE.

The Fiendlike Lilith Was a Complete Matrimonial Failure.

Whether Lilith was one of the female creations of chapter 1 or a demon or something between the two, she was, considered matrimonially, a complete failure. She was expelled after living with Adam for 130 years and subsequently became the wife of Satan, by whom she was the mother of the Jinns, so familiar in Persian fairy lore.

The emphatic remark of Adam when he first saw Eve, "This is now bone of my bones and flesh of my flesh," makes, it is suggested, a comparison between Eve and the beautiful but fiendlike Lilith not complimentary to the latter, while the reference on the birth of Seth to him as Adam's son "in his own likeness, after his image," conveys a painful hint of the uncanny offspring born to Adam and Lilith.

Perhaps in revenge for this Lilith—the name occurs translated "night monster" in Isaiah xxxiv—became the sworn foe of little children, whom she was wont to strangle with one of her glorious golden hairs unless the watchfulness of their mothers drove her away. It has indeed been gravely suggested by an etymologist greatly daring that our word "lullaby" is simply a corruption of "Lilla, ab!" (Lilith, avaunt!) which mothers and nurses would croon over the cradles or write on the doorpost.—St. James' Gazette.

—At a meeting of the Maxton town commissioners held on the 12th inst. the contract for a preliminary survey for the proposed water and sewerage system, maps, estimate, etc., was let to Professor J. M. Bundy, civil engineer of Laurinburg. Professor Bundy has had charge of the installation of the system there and also drew the maps, etc. The work will begin about the last of the month.

—Winston-Salem, June 17: The Norfolk and Western Railway Company has notified its attorneys here that on July 1st the passenger rate of 2 1-4 conts, provided by the act of the recent Legislature, will be put into effect in North Carolina. This means that there will be no contest on the part of the Norfolk and Western.

—Salisbury, June 17: More than $10,000 prize money changed hands in a series of big cock fights at Augusta, Ga., last week, all of the money being won by North Carolina chickens, Nineteen fights were scheduled but by the end of the 13th the victory was declared in favor of the owners of the North State birds, which were shipped from Salisbury, Concord and Charlotte. The fights were witnessed by visitors from a dozen States. The Salisbury cocks have won several years in succession.

—High Point, N. C., June 17: Oscar Kearns, colored, was found dead in the woods east of High Point this evening. Yesterday afternoon Kearns left home and had not returned this morning, when search was made and the body was found with bullets in it. It is not known whether Kearns committed suicide or not, but it is generally believed that he engaged in a game of cards when a quarrel ensued and Kearns was killed. The coroner has been sent for and will arrive tonight.

—Tarboro, June 17: The Masonic fraternity of this city has awarded a contract for the erection of a temple, which will cost $18,000 exclusive of plumbing and heating. The exterior will be pressed brick, stone and terra cotta, and in appearance will equal any building in town. The ground floor will be for a store and will be almost half belted with plate glass. The building will have a frontage on Main street of thirty feet and a depth on West Pitt street of 100 feet. The building will be completed by January 1, 1908.

—Tarboro, N. C., June 17: As reported in the Southerner today, Dred Horne, an old colored man, well known here, where he has lived for very many years, was found dead in a path leading from the houses on the Penola farm to the lowlands, where he had started at an earlier hour for the purpose of hunting. He was the stock feeder on that farm. Having completed his morning work, he had taken his gun and started for the hunting ground, where death overtook him. He had evidently died without a struggle.

—Asheville, June 17: At a meeting today of stockholders of the American National Bank recently organized here with a capital stock of three hundred thousand dollars, officers and directors were elected and preparation was made for the consolidation of the bank with the Blue Ridge National bank and the commencement of business July 1. J. H. Carter was elected president; Erwin Sluder, of Asheville, and Charles J. Harris, of Dillsboro, vice president, and Rufe M. Fitzpatrick, cashier. A very strong board of directiors was chosen, composed of prominent business men in nearly every county in western North Carolina. The institution will do a general banking and trust business.

The Magic No. 3.

Number three is a wonderful mascot for Geo. H. Parris, of Cedar Grove, Me., according to a letter which reads: "After suffering much with liver and kidney trouble, and becoming greatly discouraged by the failure to find relief, I tried Electric Bitters, and as a result I am a well man today. The first bottle relieved and three bottles completed the cure." Guaranteed best on earth for stomach, liver and kidney torubles, by R .R. Bellamy ,druggist. 50c.

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere,—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Two sizes—50 cents and $1.00.

Note of Warning

To The Public:

The Keeley Cure has now been in successful operation for 28 consecutive years and the merits and reputation of the Dr. Leslie E. Keeley Remedies have been throughly established. Because of this fact, many imitators are seeking to turn this knowledge to their own advantage by falsely claiming that they are able to sell and administer our remedies and treatment. It should be borne in mind that the Keeley Remedies are only to be obtained at establishments known by the uniform name of The Keeley Institute. There is one or more of these establishments in nearly every State in the Union, besides several in foreign countries. THERE IS ONLY ONE KEELEY INSTITUTE IN THE STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, AND THAT IS LOCATED AT GREENSBORO. At all Keeley Institutes the remedies used are procured from our laboratory, and in all cases they are administered by physicians who have been especially instructed by us. It follows, therefore, that all other establishments claiming to be able to sell our remedies and administer our treatment are obtaining money under false pretenses and will be dealt with accordingly. The public is warned that under no circumstances can Keeley remedies or treatment be obtained except at authorized Keeley Institutes. These imitators sometimes adopt similar names to those by which our remedies are known, but if patients will take pains to see that they are in an authorized Keeley Institute they need not fear imposition. The Keeley remedies will cure inebriety, all kinds of drug using, the tobacco habit and neurasthenia; they are never administered in hospitals and no patients are treated at Keeley Institutes for other than the above named diseases.

THE LESLIE E. KEELEY CO.,
Dwight, Illinois.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE, at Greensboro, N. C., is the only one in this State, and all representations that there is in this State any cure that is identical with or the same as the Keeley Double Chloride of Gold Cure, are malicious, false and made for the purpose of deceiving. We learn with indignant regret that such claim is being made, and feeling that if it be hurtful to us it will prove even more disastrous to those who are deceived thereby, we sound this note of warning.

THE COTTON MARKET.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, June 18.—The cotton market was irregular today but ruled quite firm during the afternoon and closed steady at a net advance of 6 to 11 points. Sales of the day were estimated at 300,000 bales. The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 8 points and shortly afterward the market showed a net gain of 5 to 10 points on the active months as a result of better cables than expected, continued reports of dry hot weather in the southwest and covering of shorts. Offerings increased on the advance, for beyond the talk of damage in the southwest, the weather seemed to be generally favorable, a bearish weekly report was expected at midday and it was expected that a private acreage and condition report to be issued in the early afternoon would make a bearish showing. Prices sold off under bear pressure and liquition to a net decline of about 7 to 9 points but steadied around 11.28 for October and rallied sharply after the publication of the expected bearish reports which proved about as looked for but had evidently been discounted. October sold at 11.55 during the middle of the afternoon and the active months generally showed gains of 11 to 17 points until towords the close when there was reactions as a result of realizing. A private crop report showed an increase in area of 16.6 per cent and reported condition on June 15 as 68.7 per cent., against 63.8 on May 25 and 84.5 per cent last year. Southern spot markets were unchanged to 1-4 cent lower.

Receipts at the ports today were 7,116 bales against 4,897 last week and 7,546 last year. For the week 30,000 bales against 34,033 last week and 32,102 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 2,361 bales against 2,118 last year, and at Houston 1,042 bales against 3,171 last year.

Spot cotton closed steady, 5 points higher. Middling uplands 12.95; middling gulf 13.20; no sales.

STRONG EVIDENCE AGAINST HAYWOOD

In Trial at Boise, Idaho, State Introduces Several Tell-Tale Letters.

COVERED ORCHARD'S TRACKS

Original Letters and Telegrams Produced to Show That Haywood Kept In Touch With Orchard During His Many Crimes.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Boise, Idaho, June 18.—The prosecution in the Steunenberg murder trial offered one of its most important pieces of evidence against Wm. D. Haywood today, when recalling Harry Orchard for redirect examination, it introduced four letters tending to show that Haywood, during the Fall of 1905, when Orchard swears he was engaged on various crimes for the Federation leaders, had participated in a plan to deceive Mrs. Orchard, of Cripple Creek, as to the whereabouts of her husband.

Over a variety of protests from the defense, Orchard was allowed to testify that in the Summer of 1905 Haywood told him that Mrs. Orchard was writing for information as to Orchard's whereabouts. Orchard swore that he wrote Mrs. Orchard a series of letters that were falsely dated and delivered to Mrs. Orchard by agents of the Western Federation of Miners. Orchard said that he first wrote two letters, dated San Francisco, and had them delivered through Paddy Mulliney, representative at Cripple Creek. Orchard identified the two letters, and overruling all objections of the defense, Judge Wood admitted them.

Next Orchard swore that he wrote a third letter purporting to come from Nome, Alaska, and that under the general arrangement he had made with the Federation officers, Marian Moore carried the letter to Nome, where he went as organizer of the Federation, and posted it. This letter, bearing the date of Nome, August 5, 1905, was produced, identified and admitted as evidence. Orchard then identified a letter which Haywood wrote to Mrs. Orchard, and that was admitted in evidence and handed to the jury. It follows:

Denver, Nov. 18, 1905.

"Mrs. H. Orchard.

"Dear Madam and Sister: I have not heard a word since I saw you. The last information I got was from Alaska. I think Fairfield was the name of the place. I see that awful conditions prevailed among the law and order element.

"Yours very truly,

"WILLIAM D. HAYWOOD."

The three letters written Orchard were commonplace and contained nothing bearing on the case or Orchard's testimony except references to the arrangement which Orchard says he made with the Federation officers for the care of his wife while he was absent.

The defence attacked the letters and Orchard's story about them when it got a chance to cross-examine the witness, but Orchard held to the story he told about them. The witness denied that he had made an arrangement for the delivery of the letters to Pinkerton agents; that the letters had only made their appearance since he left the stand last week, or that he had invented the story because his wife had Haywood's letter in her possession. He swore positively that Haywood had agreed to write the Alaska letter and that Pettibone and Moyer knew of the arrangement.

Beside the four San Francisco and Alaska letters, the State procured the admission of a certified copy of an unsigned letter which Orchard got at Caldwell jail and which Orchard swears was in the handwriting of Pettibone. The letter follows:

"December 30.

"Friend Tom:

"Your letter received. That was sent to Jack December 13 for you. He should send it so that you ought to have it by this time. Will not write any more this time. Write me as soon as you get to your new field."

The letter was postmarked at Denver, December 30, 1905, the day Steunenberg was killed, and it is said by the State that the "Jack" mentioned was Simpkins, and that the "that" referred to was $100 which Orchard swore he asked Simpkins to get for him when Simpkins left Caldwell.

The State developed its contention that, as tending to show a conspiracy and knowledge of the Steunenberg crime, Orchard was, without any request from him furnished with counsel within a few days after his arrest. The prosecution first showed that Orchard, after his arrest sent no communication from Caldwell jail and then produced the original of the following telegram:

"Spokane, Wash, January 30, 1906.

"To T. H. Hogan, Care Sheriff, Caldwell, Idaho:

"Attorney Fred Miller will start for Caldwell in morning.

"M.

"59 Hyde Block."

The telegram was labelled as telephoned at 7:30 P. M. and that the nine words in the dispatch were charged to the account of Robertson, Miller & Rosenfeldt.

The defense examined Orchard on this subject and largely devoted itself to showing that the Western Federation of Miners always provide counsel for its members whenever and wherever they get into trouble.

To combat the theory that Orchard killed Steunenberg in revenge for his loss of a valuable interest in the Hercules mine, the State on redirect examination obtained from Orchard a declaration that he sold his interest in the Hercules in 1897, two years before the strike began and troops came. The defense attempted to modify this by getting the witness to admit he had not sold his interest in the Hercules, but had pledged it and could have taken it back any time up to his flight from north Idaho but for the oncoming troops, but Orchard adhered to the statement that he had sold outright.

There was a long contest over an effort by the State to show that the confession of Steve Adams had been voluntary. It maintained that Adams had once discussed the matter freely with Attorneys Hawley and Borah, but that was about as far as it got, the court sustaining a series of objections from the defense.

At the opening of the morning session, the defense asked Orchard a series of impeaching questions. They all dealt with conversations in which it was alleged Orchard recited his private grudge against Frank Steunenberg and vowed that he would kill him if he hanged for it. Orchard denied every query both specifically and generally.

E. D. Boyce, once president of the Western Federation of Miners, and now one of the owners of the rich Hercules mine, came after Orchard and was still on the stand when the court rose for the day. He was called to identify the Miners' Magazine as the official organ of the Federation and to pave the way for the use as evidence of a great number of articles from the magazine.

BRYAN ON HUGHES' VETO

Commoner Writes to Travelers' Protective Association at Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., June 18.—William Hoge, representing New York in the National Travelers' Protective Association convention here, today received from William Jennings Bryan a letter under date of Lincoln, Neb., June 15, in which Mr. Bryan says:

"I am sorry that Governor Hughes, of New York, vetoed the two cent rate bill. He simply gives the benefit of the doubt to the railroads instead of to the people and that, too, where the roads were protected by an appeal to the courts, whereas the people have no appeal. His veto shows how difficult regulation is when the roads have such an enormous influence in politics. But the traveling men ought not be discouraged; it takes time to secure reforms, but reforms come—the next governor of New York will not veto a two cent bill."

The features of the second days session of the 18th annual convention of the Travelers' Protective Association were the reports of W. A. Kirchoff of St. Louis, national organizer; John S. Harwood, of Richmond, Va., chairman of the national legislative committee and F. W. Crandall, of St. Louis, chairman of the national railroad committee.

During the year three new State divisions, sixteen new posts and an increase in the total membership of 9,985 bringing the total membership up to more than 37,000 were reported. In the report of Chairman Harwood, President Roosevelt was praised for the work he had done in regulating the trusts and for his work affecting railroad legislation.

The report of Chairman Crandall, of the railroad committee referred briefly to the two cent railroad passenger rate law, declaring that commercial men are entitled to a rate lower than the general rate prevailing in the section through which they travel this rate to be regulated locally. Referring to the great increase in railroad accidents, the report suggests that the remedy is for the railroads to double track; in the establishing of automatic block systems with a view to preventing collisions; and above all the use of non-combustible cars, preferably steel, which, when all other precautions fail, may not be telescoped and capnot burn.

The next place of meeting rests between Asheville, N. C., Milwaukee, and Birmingham, Ala. Alabama delegates today offered $100,000 to provide for the 1908 convention.

At tonight's session a resolution was read urging President Roosevelt to appoint F. W. Crandall chairman of the National Railroad Committee to the first vacancy that occurs on the Inter-State Commerce Commission at Washington. The recommendation which included a resolution of thanks, declined to go on record as mixing politics with the work of the association.

BLACK HAND SIGN OF DEATH

Witness In Kidnapping Case Deterred From Testifying.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, June 18.—Ignazie De Leonardo and Pietre Pampinellia were today convinced of kidnapping and employing "Black Hand" methods of extortion. De Leonardo was first found guilty and at once offered to turn State's evidence. At the moment DeLeonardo took the stand, Pampinellia placed his hand on his temples and brought them down slowly until they met at the throat. The effect on Leonardo was starling. The witness turned deathly pale. Then he managed to say: "I am sick. I cannot testify."

"Why?" demanded Judge O'Sullivan.

With an effort De Leonardo replied: "Pampinellia has just given me the sign of death. It is the Black Hand. I will not testify."

The witness was removed from the room and given a chance to recover himself. Later he was returned to the stand only to collapse when his eyes met those of his partner in crime. He positively refused to give evidence.

Pampinellia was, however, convicted as DeLeonardo had been, chiefly on the testimony of seven year old Salvator Siatta, who was stolen from his home last Winter and held a prisoner while "Black Hand" letters demanded from his father, a prosperous barber, a ransom of $10,000. The youth was eventually released, though the father denied that he had settled with the abductors.

COTTON REPORT WAS JUGGLED

Van Riper Continues to Squeal on Former Statistician Edwin H. Holmes.

DROPPED MONEY BY THE DEAL

Van Riper Admitted His Disappointment Over Way Things Panned Out—Says Holmes Changed Cotton Crop Estimate.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Washington, June 18.—In his cross-examination of L. C. Can Riper, the principal witness in the trial of former Associate Statistician Edwin S. Holmes, Jr., of the Agricultural Department, Attorney Worthington sought to develop the fact today that Mr. Van Riper's disappointment over his failure to realize a profit on his speculation supplied the motive for his complaint to Secretary Wilson, out of which grew the charges against Holmes which caused his discharge. Van Riper admitted his disappointment and his feeling against Haas, the alleged intermediary, but contended that he harbored no resentment against Holmes and declared that in his exposure he was actuated only by a desire to promote the public welfare.

Mr. Van Riper's direct examination was completed and his cross-examination was begun.

Towards the close of the day a sharp tilt occurred between Attorneys Beach and Worthington over the failure of the former to produce an affidavit presented by Van Riper to Secretary Wilson in 1905, resulting in a demand by Mr. Worthington for a summons to the District Attorney commanding him to produce the paper. After first saying he would not do so, the District Attorney announced privately that he would bring the document into court tomorrow, regardless of the summons. The incident leads to the conclusion that the affidavit must contain most important matters, but Mr. Worthington said he knew nothing of its contents.

On direct examination today, concerning the division of the profits realized on the cotton ginners' report for December, 1904, Van Riper said there was $43,071 to be distributed, and that this sum was divided into four parts. Haas' share of the amount was $10,767, but he had been given $10,800, because they could not make change.

Van Riper said that Holmes told him that on one occasion in 1903 when there had been leaks in the report, he had gone to the White House to assure the President that the system was perfect and received the President's congratulations on its excellence.

"Did Mr. Holmes tell you at that time whether there was any justification of the suspicion that there was a leak?"

"He said there was; he told me that he had furnished the figures to Price, and related how Haas had gone back and forth several times between him and Price in an effort to have the approaching report manipulated so as to suit Price's conditions. The outlook was for a report showing a production of 10,250,000 bales. Price was short and said those figures would not help him and pleaded to have the amount reduced below 10,000,000. Holmes had said that it could not possibly be made lower than 10,250,000 bales, but Price had insisted, and the figures were made to conform to Price's requirements."

He said that afterwards an effort was made at Holmes' suggestion to get an outside place for Statistician Hyde in order that Holmes could be promoted to the chief position in the office.

"Did Holmes ever tell you how he got his advance information?" Van Riper was next asked by the government special attorney, changing the line of questioning.

"He did," was the response.

"He said that he had access to the reports of the special agents and the State agents and that as these were the only reports that received attention and he was quick at figures, he had no difficulty in getting at results."

Mr. Van Riper said he had spoken to Mr. Judd, on whose advice he had given information concerning the matter to Richard Cheatham, of the Cotton Growers' Association, and that Cheatham and Judd had then determined to notify Secretary Wilson. Van Riper then, in connection with Cheatham and others, visited Mr. Wilson and had given that official in person the information concerning the manipulation of the June report. That occurred on June 8, 1905, with the result that Holmes was suspended. The witness said Secretary Wilson had promised that the interview with him should be confidential and that he had reserved the right to withhold information. He had submitted some letters to the Secretary.
